17/10/2015 11:09:26	Yes	For moving forward with the proposal (the organisation should be set up & work should start on finding projects for FAC alumni)	Most important thing that I value in working life is to keep learning and a clear and progressive path. Whilst compensation and security are also invaluable with the fast paced nature of the tech industry I think it is imperative once you get on the learning train never to get off. ;)	This proposal looks very progressive but will it lead to friction in the future by creating a divide between the goals/objectives between the two organisations? However, I think without the commercial branch it is hard for the current model to be sustainable and I also think the commercial side will bring a touch more seriousness about the goals and objectives of the free course. :o: it gets my vote
